Mokena Banker Enters Local Mayoralty Race

Everett J. Cooper cashier of the Mokena State Bank heads the Mokena Village ticket for the office of Mayor to succeed Harry F. Mall who has served a number of terms and is out of the race. The village ticket as tentatively outlined is as follows:

For Mayor, Everett J. Cooper, village trustees 3 to be elected: Harold Spiess, Willard Marti and Chas. Burkhardt; village clerk Alvin Sorenson, police magistrate, Albert Hentsch and Rene Guindon.

Two years ago John Marti and Philip J. Hacker were elected as village trustees and shortly afterward were inducted into military service but failed to resign as trustees and since then the village board has had to function with only four members instead of six. If one of the four members is unable to attend no village board meeting can be had. These two vacancies cannot be filled by new candidates until the terms for which the incumbents were elected expires.

The village election will be held at the village hall Tuesday, April 17th.

AMATEUR SHOW AUDITIONS SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Auditions for the amateur show sponsored by the Tinley Park Recreation Commission, will be held on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon March 3rd and 4th. Many acts will compete with one another for the privilege of appearing in the show which is to be presented at the Tinley Park school on the evening of March 16.

Applications have come in from near and far. Many contestants have entered from Joliet and Blue Island. The ages of the contestants run from 5 years to 70 years and it appears as if it will be a good show with acts from magician to grand opera.

Tickets are on sale and may be had from the young people of Tinley Park as well as the members of the Commission. At last reports the tickets are selling fast and everyone is urged to buy their ticket soon.

The Amateur show is the biggest show to come to Tinley Park for some time and will be very much worth seeing. In an amateur show one sees those who perform more for the love of the performance than for the possible money involved as prizes. A very enjoyable evening is in store for those who attend the show, there will be laughs and entertainment galore.

There is still time for those who wish to enter the contest to get their applications in as the commission has agreed to accept those applications turned in this week before Saturday noon.

Lincoln Estates Youth Suffers 1st, 2nd and 3rd Degree Burns In Oil Fire

Several children while playing in the Joseph Arnold's garage at his home in Lincoln Estates a week ago Monday, started to build a fire in the stove in the building. They used kerosene from a nearby can to help start the fire. A spark fell near the kerosene can which started a blaze. Little Raymond Vaughn Jr. aged 6 years who was one of the children, noticed the blaze and at once endeavored to extinguish it, but in his efforts he accidentally tipped over the can of kerosene, which spilled on him igniting his clothes.

Raymond's parents, who were not at home had taken him to the Arnold's to stay until their return. The Arnold's are cousins of the Vaughn children. When Raymond's clothing started to burn the other children ran into the Arnold home and called their cousin Dorothy Arnold who is about 14 years of age and she immediately ran to the child, rolled him on the ground, tore off his blazing trousers and extinguished the fire. In so doing she sustained burns on her hands.

Dr. R. Hiroshige of Frankfort was called and found the lad to have first second and third degree burns on his one leg from the shoe top to his hip. The same evening Raymond became ill with the measles from which he has now recovered.

Wednesday evening Raymond was removed to Silver Cross hospital where treatment is being given to prevent serious complications.

ST. JUDE'S CHURCH NEW LENOX SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Grund announce the marriage of their daughter Marjorie Elizabeth to Cpl. Richard Paul Mummert, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mummert Sr., of Hanover, Pa. The couple were married Saturday afternoon Feb. 24 at 4 o'clock in St. Jude's Catholic church in New Lenox with the Rev. Father Reynold Klaes officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful white gown, the form fitting bodice of white satin, and the full skirt of chiffon. It was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, full sleeves gathered at the elbow and very small buttons lined the back to the waist. Her finger tip veil was held by a white net coronet trimmed with pearls and her arm bouquet was of white carnations, baby breath and sweet peas, tied with white ribbons. She carried on the old custom of wearing something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

The maid of honor, Miss Peggy Mohney of Harvey wore a baby blue chiffon gown fashioned with a square neck line and elbow length sleeves. Ruffles circled the hip line of the full skirt. Her blue flowered head band held the shoulder length veil in place, and her arm bouquet was of pink carnations tied with blue streamers.

The bridesmaid Miss Ethel Mae Grund, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink chiffon, also fashioned with a square neckline, short puff sleeves and the full skirt was trimmed with small matching bows. Her arm bouquet was of pink carnations tied with pink streamers, and her shoulder length veil and pink flowers ed coronet was like that of the maid of honor.

Mrs. Grund, mother of the bride wore a two piece powder blue ensemble with matching accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Norman L. Grund Jr., brother of the bride and Albert Gelin of Harvey attended the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served to the bridal party and members of the immediate families in the home of the bride's parents. In the evening an Open House reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Petzinger in Harvey.

The former Miss Grund was graduated from the Thornton Township High school in Harvey and attended the Junior College there. Cpl. Mummert before entering service was graduated from school at Hanover Pa. The newly weds left Sunday afternoon for Hanover where they will spend the remaining 17 days of his furlough with his parents, before reporting to Fort Dix, N. J. where he is stationed. His wife will reside there with him.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. DePorto and family and Wesley Lamore attended the rabbit show in Chicago Saturday given by the Tibbar Rabbit Breeders Association. This was a four day show. Wesley DePorto showed one Dutch rabbit on which he received a prize.

TINLEY GIRL ELECTED MEMBER OF COMIC OPERA CHORUS

Eleanore Dowling, 175th St. and 94th Ave., Tinley Park, has been selected as a member of the chorus in "The Sorcerer", Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera to be presented by students of the University of Illinois April 6, 7 and 14.

Miss Dowling, who is a sophomore in the College of Fine and Applied Arts will sing soprano in the chorus.

The colorful musical play will be this year's third major production of the Illini Theatre Guild, student dramatic organization, with a shortage of civilian male talent on the campus under present wartime conditions, a number of parts have been taken by men in Army or Navy training at the University.

WILL CO. REPUBLICAN WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Will County Republican Women's club held their annual meeting and election of officers in the Woodruff hotel Monday evening.

All officers were re-elected as follows: Pres., Mrs. Dorothy Dibel June; first vice president Mrs. Raymond J. Smith; second vice president Mrs. Arthur E. Kelly, Secretary Mrs. Julius M. Westphal, treasurer, Mrs. Leonard Spaulding.

Mrs. Mary Berkemeier Quinn Chicago attorney and public guardian of Cook County was the speaker Mrs. Quinn chose as her subject "Where Are We Now?" She mentioned that Abraham Lincoln did not free the colored people, but he freed the slaves, bringing to mind that the American people should be more concerned about the government for there might be danger that slavery in perhaps another manner, could be forced upon the citizenry today.

Mrs. Quinn had in mind the Kilgore bill, which is now up for passage in Congress today. That bill, if it became a law, would mean that every woman from the ages of 18 to 45 would be drafted and told what and where to work.

Mention was made as an example. A stenographer, in Chicago, who had been specially trained in mortgage work, seeking connection in that line of work, and being told by the Alphabetical government powers that control such affairs, that she could not work in that sphere and was told to work in a defense plant and at the same time there were many in the mortgage field which were anxiously seeking the services this stenographer could render.

All women were urged to write to their congressman at once telling him not to vote in favor of the Kilgore Bill.

Women from the eastern part of Will County attending this meeting were: Mrs. Wm. Bettenhausen and Mrs. Bobzin of Green Garden; Mrs. Wm. Semmler, Mrs. Alvin Spiess, Mrs. Robt. Bechstein and Mrs. John Martin of Mokena.

LOWELL STASSEN BACK AFTER 15 MONTHS SPENT IN PACIFIC

Lowell Stassen, Machinists Mate 1-c husband of the former Ella Marie Pfeiffer of Joliet, formerly of Frankfort, has arrived in this country after serving more than 15 months in active service in the Pacific Theatre of war.

A family dinner was given in his honor last Sunday in the home of his wife's parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pfeiffer, 216 Mound St., Joliet. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pfeiffer of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Harnack and daughter of New Lenox, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Pfeiffer of Joliet and Mrs. Lowell Stassen and son of Lansing, Ill.

M. M. Lowell Stassen is stationed now at Great Lakes hospital.

No Opposition In New Lenox Town Election

The high bid was $220 per acre.

KINNEY HILTON PROPERTY IN NEW LENOX BRINGS $8500 AT AUCTION

The Kinney Hilton property in New Lenox consisting of two dwellings and two lots was sold for $8500 at public auction Tuesday afternoon the successful bidder being Sheldon Hauck of New Lenox, coal and feed dealer.

The property is located on Lincoln Highway in the heart of the village and is an old land mark.

The dwelling located directly across the street from the New Lenox I. G. A. store was originally built by Geo. S. Hilton one time New Lenox merchant, grain dealer and postmaster, and is modeled after the style of New England homes, Mr. Hilton being a native of New England. Upon his death his brother Kinney inherited the property and he in turn stipulated in his will that Dean Gillette should be the executor of his estate and sell this property at auction.

The Garden Club members gathered in the comfortable home of Mrs. Charles Nielsen on Thursday, Feb. 15 at two o'clock, to hold their regular meeting. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Swisher, president of the club, welcomed the new member Mrs. Wm. Rick. After roll call, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report accepted. After all business had been taken care of numerous features of interest took place.

One discussion was about Mrs. John Klepper's Sacred Lily, which many people here in town saw and appreciated very much, another was in regard to Mrs. Swisher's blooming petunia and marigold. Mrs. Nielsen told of Paul having received the box of candy from the club, and a very fine letter was read from Lt. Marianne Moss. Our program chairman Mrs. Hug, had a novel program arranged, mostly about Valentines and we all saw ourselves as children again. After the program Mrs. Moss took charge of the Valentine exchange and Mrs. Swisher told a delightful story about a valentine which her sister had preserved for 52 years. Each member was pleasantly surprised with a lovely corseted valentine boutonniere, the gift of the president. The hostess served delicious refreshments. The hours sped, and the members left expressing their thanks to Mrs. Nielsen for a very happy afternoon.

CHEST OF JOASH DAY

Sunday February 25th was a great day in the Tinley Park and Mokena Methodist churches, when amidst great enthusiasm, the people of the congregations contributed their offerings in the Crusade For Christ Campaign to raise 25 million dollars for reconstruction and relief. At the close of the service in each church, the congregations formed a procession and proceeded to the alter. Singing Showers of Blessing, put their offering into the CHEST OF JOASH, Mokena with the largest congregation the church has had in the present pastorate, overpaid its quota of $190 by $1.00, making a total cash contribution of $191.00. Tinley Park because of local situations that kept some of our contributions away, did not quite reach its full quota of $590. The cash offering was $542.58, leaving a balance of $47.42 yet to be raised, which will doubtless come in by next Sunday. The pastor Rev. J. Frank Anderson wishes to thank all the contributors who so generously helped in this work of the redeeming Christ.

APPOINT NEW MEMBERS TO THE MIDLOTHIAN RATION BOARD

The appointments of New Board members announced by Price and Rationing Board 31-1, Midlothian are: Arthur Gronau of Midlothian, Ill., Ralph Green of Markham, Ill., Arthur Schoeneck of Tinley Park, Ill., William Barr of Oak Forest, Ill.

MOKENA MAY GET NEW DEPOT THIS SUMMER

According to latest reports the Rock Island railroad is contemplating building a new depot at Mokena this summer.

INsofar as so-called fan mail goes, the bulk of the correspondence we have received lately concerns the scoring in boxing matches. Apparently there is a nationwide interest in attempting to solve this problem, which Commissioner Eddie Eagan of New York has tackled so intelligently. He is making progress, but there are still many tall barricades along the road. His campaign, however, has started many fans to thinking along these lines.

For example here is one letter I think worth recording. It comes to me from Maj. Richard Maibaum of the U. S. army signal corps:

Grantland Rice

"Dear Mr. Rice: As chief, combat films branch, signal corps photographic center, one of my duties is supervising the review of several hundred thousand feet of film per month shot by army combat cameramen, all over the world, much of it under battle conditions. The exposed negative, unprocessed, is sent in from the field accompanied by caption sheets in which the cameramen describe the action they have photographed. And I am often amazed at the discrepancy between what actually appears on the film and what the cameramen in all good faith believe will be found there.

'Wish Fulfillment'

"I think I found the answer to the puzzler about scoring boxing matches the night a friend of mine lost a unanimous decision after a fight in which I thought he won every round. The boy was young, clean-cut, honest, stout-hearted and skillful. I had a strong personal interest in his career. The match was crucial, a big step up if he won.

"On the heels of the shock administered by the decision I indulged in a little introspection. It came down to this: how could my eyes have so completely deceived me?

"Yet deceived me they had, and with my own stubborn conviction, I 'saw' that boy win because I wanted him to win. It was a pure case of wish-fulfillment. Actually I had fought that fight with him, identifying myself with his efforts, and seeing it through his eyes. Haven't you caught yourself 'following' only one of the fighters in the ring and saying, 'Now I'll follow' the other fellow for a while?"

"When the two men touch off no special pre-fight interest, it is usually some incident during the bout that suddenly 'fixes' your preference upon one of the combatants. A display of courage, a sudden personality appeal, a common prejudice aroused (or overcome).

"No matter how impartial we try to be, we do subjectively choose the man we want to emerge victorious. And we interpret what we see in that light. Especially in close bouts.

"The bafflement is caused by the fact that the choice we make is often a subconscious one. We're not aware that we have installed one of the men as a 'psychic favorite,' the one who somehow squares with a lot of preconceived notions so much a part of us we don't even realize we have them.

"I think this also applies to the officials, who may be as honest as Abe Lincoln, but who are still subject to the same psychological laws that govern the rest of us.

Maj. Richard Maibaum, Signal Corps, U. S. Army"

Six-Year-Old Judges

Here is a true report of at least a part of the picture. You and I, sitting together, see two different actions taking place.

"I have only one solution to offer," the major says. "The age limit of officials should be around six years. After the scrap the kids should be asked—'Who got licked?' I think you'd usually get the true answer. The kids haven't had time to sop up that ego that makes most fight fans see what they want to see, because what they want to see must be the way it is."

This is a completely correct statement. We usually see only what we want to see.

As Hughey Keogh once wrote—"The world's greatest liar is the man who says he can bet one way and root another."

This is like saying a man can stand on his head and his feet at the same time. A contortionist can perform this feat, but he won't be standing. He will be in a knot.

How About Eyesight?

Along this line I have just received a letter from Dr. M. T. Gilden, optometrist and eye specialist, in connection with boxing decisions.

"Because you speak of the importance of eyesight and I am an optometrist, I suggest that both judges and the referee should have their eyes examined to determine their visual acuity. In plain words to determine what their degree of vision is, and their visual speed of recognition." (An extremely important detail seldom mentioned.)

Treated Fence Posts Last Twenty Years

New Method Cost Now Reduced to Six Cents

THE chlorinated phenol dunking method of treating fence posts, a comparatively new wood preservative, can be used at a cost of from 5 to 6 cents per post. Tests conducted at the University of Idaho experiment station show that the life of soft wood posts, properly treated by this method, will be from 15 to 20 years. They found that the bottom of the post will last the life of the top.

Not only is it possible to treat fence posts, but fence rails, gates, barn sills, bridge timbers, irrigation gates, and similar pieces can be treated.

Chlorinated phenol is a liquid concentrate, and can be obtained full strength or diluted with various amounts of oil. Buying in concentrate form saves shipping and storage; it can then be diluted in proportions of one part of concentrate to 14 parts of diesel oil, stove oil or old crank case drainings. Not only for this purpose but for spraying purposes, it is usually possible to secure crank case drainings at service stations at little cost.

Agriculture In the News W. J. DRYDEN

White Ash.

The white ash is not only America's leading hardwood but its most important ash. It grows from Nova Scotia westward to Minnesota and southward almost to the Gulf of Mexico. It is a stately tree 75 to 125 feet high.

The wood of the white ash is heavy, hard, strong and stiff, seasons well, takes a good polish and is free from taste or odor. Its principal uses are for handles, cooperage, furniture, motor vehicle parts, sporting and athletic goods, as well as railroad ties, veneer and fuel.

Select Dairy Cows

On Standard Basis

In selecting dairy cows certain definite points must be looked for. Among the most important are:

1. Ample digestive capacity, which means good length, width and depth of body.
2. A good constitution as shown by great chest capacity.
3. A large udder of soft quality.

A good type dairy cow.

4. The rump should be long, wide and level and the hip bones should be wide apart.
5. The hide should be thin, loose and pliable, and the bones of medium size, with the head showing general refinement.
6. Must have dairy temperament, or tendency and ability to produce milk.
7. Generally the larger the dairy cow the better. Size and quality, however, must be properly correlated.

ANN DREW stood in her tiny studio looking critically at a set of dress designs thumbtacked against the wall—every detail satisfactory, including the Ann-mark on the pert little face that always topped her work.

The hum from the busy street far below her windows seemed to change into a man's well-remembered comment: "Ann, a face isn't necessary."

"Humph! Not unless I like a face—and I do," she had insisted.

"Yes, particularly that one; it's your own," the man answered. "You're conceited, Ann. Imagine! Conceited about a funny little face with a funny little scar that makes the mouth look a bit one-sided!" But his voice had been soft and right. Then, for the first time, Bert Harris had kissed her.

She took the sketches down and stacked them on her desk. Running an envelope into her typewriter, she addressed it to the Harris Dress Manufacturing company and slid the drawings inside to be mailed.

A door slammed across the hall. Ann winced; the slamming of a door had been Bert's good-bye two months before. The Harris merry-go-round is right back where it started, she mused—business, marriage, strictly business—plus a five-year-old son.

Perhaps there had been too much Ann-and-that. But the registered lipmark with the Ann Drew signature meant faith in her career and Bert's understanding had not been broad enough to accept her refusal to add the name of Harris.

She decided to go home. Queer! She could finish a series for any other concern and work on. But every Harris envelope sealed, whatever the hour, terminated her working day.

It always had. Eight years before the Harris contract had been the first and only one in her file; a year later because Bert Harris had been her husband and she had crowded his work in at home between busy days at the studio; this season because she became emotionally fatigued each time she outlined the unnecessary little face—every pen stroke tended toward the hope that she might live again in Bert's thoughts.

Slipping into her coat, Ann dialed her apartment. Andrew answered and finally she stopped his chatter long enough to tell him that she was on her way home.

Going down in the elevator she smiled. She knew that Andrew was rushing for his toy telephone. He would throw one end through the kitchen door. Then he would scamper as far as the long cord would permit to ring the bell and tell old Hannah that Mummy Ann wanted her dinner.

Deciding to walk home through the park, she found herself stopping to rest on a familiar bench. She opened her bag for a cigarette. Holding it between her lips, she started to fumble through her coat pockets for a match but pulled out a large square of colorful rayon instead. Her face brightened as she draped it at arm's length from one hand to set up the grouped tulips plagued against their background by pairs of Ann-marked lips. She tilted her head and murmured, "My first brass ring in textile!"

A light snow began feathering the early dusk. Deftly, Ann knotted the square about her head. She stood, lifted her face and snugged her collar about her throat. Unmindful of the admiring glance of a man who had settled himself on the other end of the bench a few moments earlier, she felt through her pockets again: "Damn!"

She turned quickly when the man struck a match. He walked over and held it out suggestively. "You didn't find one?"

"Bert! I—I didn't realize that anyone was about."

"I know," Bert parried. "When I came along you seemed rather absorbed—shall we say—in yourself?" "Why not add 'as usual'?" Ann asked.

"Ann, listen . . ."

Ann's eyes glinted queerly. An ever-alert inner imp impelled her to answer, "Not in this snow. I think, instead, I'll follow the me-first-program you credit me with and take myself home."

Opposite the park she glanced back but saw only a screen of snowflakes. She shrugged, signaled a taxi and was home in a few minutes.

A half-hour later, the buzzer sounded and she heard Hannah ask someone to wait. When she started toward the living room, the glow from a lamp shone on Andrew's toy telephone as it rang at her feet. She picked it up and listened: "Mummy Ann, H-ann-ah says if t-h-a-t m-a-n wants to stay for dinner, why doesn't he s-a-y so?"

Just then a man's hand touched her arm and Ann felt his face close to hers. "Oh! I didn't know who . . ." she said. Then she smiled and spoke into the telephone: "Andrew, you—you ask him."

Andrew raced through the hall, calling, "Daddy! Daddy, will you s-t-a-y?"

Bert Harris pressed his face closer to Ann's. "You know, I followed you into the park to tell you that I'm thoroughly annexed—and you made me come home alone—all the way."

Snapshots of Big Shots: (This is what comes from reading books!)

Edgar Allan Poe was a dollar-a-year-man too. . . . He spent 10 years writing and rewriting "The Raven" and got 10 bucks for it. . . . The original manuscript sold the last time for $10,000. . . . Poe paid $3 a month rent for his honeymoon cottage on Grand Concourse (in the Bronx), which is now a New York state historical shrine. If it hadn't been a grand neighborhood for dandelions he and his bride would have starved.

Mareoni, son of an Italian father and Irish mother, was 27 when he invented radio, and even then there were people who wanted to kill him. . . . These cranks said electrical waves were passing through their bodies, destroying their nerves and making it impossible for them to sleep.

Barnum, who said "there's one born every minute," was one himself. He lost a fortune on a bear's grease hair tonic, was swindled out of another selling illustrated bibles, trimmed again on a fire extinguisher that wouldn't extinguish, went into bankruptcy for half a million making alarm clocks. . . . Without a dime to his name he wrote a lecture on "How to Make Money," grossing $1,000 a night. . . . And that's how the famous Barnumism was born.

Alexander Dumas, one-fourth Negro, whose book, "The Three Musketeers," was a best seller for almost 100 years, used to boast that he had more than 500 children and swore he would never marry. . . . He changed his mind when a smart sweetheart bought up all his debts and gave him a choice between marriage and jail. . . . He wrote novels on blue paper, poetry on yellow, articles on red, and nothing else would do. . . . He wrote more than 1,200 volumes of plays, novels and histories, made over 5 million dollars and died broke, living off the charity of his son.

Woolworth started his five-and-dime stores on a capital of $300, and his first three failed. Thirty years later he was able to pay $14,000,000 cash for the building bearing his name, then the world's highest office building.

George Gershwin sold his first song for $5; nine years later a Hollywood studio paid $50,000 just to use "Rhapsody in Blue," which he wrote in his spare time, in a single picture.

Sir Isaac Newton was so absent-minded he once rammed his niece's fingers into his pipe. . . . Trying to fix himself a three-minute egg, he boiled his watch while watching the egg. . . . When he went to fetch anything he usually came back without it. . . . He was usually last in his class at school. . . . He was a woman hater and never married. . . . He always claimed he solved many of his mathematical problems in his sleep.

Dr. Samuel Johnson continually distorted his face by violent grimaces. . . . When walking in the street he touched every post he passed and if he missed one he always returned. He always made a point of entering or leaving a door on a certain foot, but his biographer, Boswell, wasn't sure which one.

Lord Byron was so emotional that once a theatrical performance put him into convulsions. . . . In a fit of temper he threw his watch into the fire and hammered it to pieces with the poker. . . . He also fired a pistol in the bedroom of his wife, who left him after a year of marriage. . . . So he went to Venice and bought a harem.

Schiller liked to keep his feet in ice while working. . . . He once wrote a full and perfect description of the Swiss land and people — although he knew neither. . . . Coleridge, who wrote "Kubla Khan" under the influence of an opiate, could remember only 54 lines when he sufficiently recovered to write. . . . Richelieu at times imagined himself to be a horse and neighed, trotted and jumped like one. . . . Beau Brummel, the fashion plate (who taught the Prince of Wales how to dress), died in rags in an insane asylum.

Beethoven had a passion for moving and sometimes was paying rent on two or three places at once, but Mozart, who died at 35, starved and frozen, never could pay rent on one.

Chopin walked out on the biggest love of his life because she didn't offer him a chair before she offered one to others in the room. . . . In his will he ordered himself buried in white tie, dress shoes and silken knee breeches.

Smart Shirtwaister

SHIRTWAIST frocks have won a favored spot in every wardrobe. They're versatile, smart and a boon to the busy homemaker. This button-front model has a set-in belt and graceful figure-molding skirt.

Pattern No. 1279 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 1½ yards of 35 or 39-inch material; ¼ yard for contrasting collar; 1½ yards ric rac to trim.

Pattern No. 1280 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, three-quarter or short sleeves, requires 3½ yards of 35 or 39-inch material; 2½ yards of 54-inch material.

Household Hints

Real bed comfort depends largely upon the under sheet being tucked in so firmly it will remain smooth and tight. Miter each corner, then tuck under the sheet.

A pleasing flavor that's somewhat different in candied sweet potatoes may be had by adding the juice of one lemon to the molasses (or sweetening), and butter.

If the knob is pulled off a tightly closed drawer, use a plunger or a large suction cup to open the drawer.

Washing neckwear in a quart size mason jar saves hot water and soap.

To rewind the spring in the roller of a window shade, insert the flattened end in the lower part of a keyhole.

You can loosen the soil on white shirt collars and cuffs by scrubbing them with a small stiff vegetable brush that has been dipped in diluted bleach water and then rubbed on a cake of naphtha soap.

Use an old toothbrush handle to remove dried grease from plated parts on your car. It will not scratch the metal and it can be shaped to clean the grooves.

Thoroughly and frequently massage any reddened areas you notice on a sick person whom you are caring for at home. Keep pressure off such spots with a slightly inflated rubber ring or small soft pillows.

Instead of rooting and digging among the family's clothes to find the soiled ones for Monday's wash, give each member of the family a laundry bag or basket and have him bring his own clothes to the laundry room.

FROCK for Tot

FOR a young miss, a dainty long-waisted frock she's sure to love. The Peter Pan collar and cuffs are edged in gay ric rac, and the bodice boasts a parade of buttons. One of the prettiest frocks for a tot you'll see.

Pattern No. 1279 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 1½ yards of 35 or 39-inch material; ¼ yard for contrasting collar; 1½ yards ric rac to trim.

Air Transport Command Base, India—1st Lt. Frank Arlaskas, pilot of Tinley Park has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, it was announced by Brig. Gen. Wm. H. Tunner commanding general of the India China Division Air Transport command.

The award was made upon completion of 300 hours of operational flight in transport aircraft over the dangerous and difficult India China air routes, where enemy interception and attack was probable and expected.

The air trail over the Hump, famed route through the towering peaks of the Himalaya Mountains, blazed by the Air Transport Command, is recognized by airmen as the world's toughest.

The award was made for the period of service June 19, 1944 to October 20, 1944.

An Air Service Command Depot, England. The engine overhaul department at which S Sgt. Richard Mason of Tinley Park is serving, has been one of the most important factors in the intensified air assaults on Germany, according to figures on 1944 production just released by headquarters of the Air Service Command in England.

Working at record speed, he and his fellow technicians overhauled more than 4,000 engines totalling almost 7,000,000 horsepower and sent them back to combat units.

S Sgt. Mason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Mason of Tinley Park. A soldier since May 18 1942 he has been overseas 20 months. He graduated from Thornton Twp. High school in Harvey and was employed by Whiting Steel Corporation at Harvey.

Don't forget if you want to be in on the birthday party at the end of the year give Mrs. F. Rowden your money at any time, which will make you eligible. After the meeting Mesdames Schanz, Alma, Kearn Wannemacher, Chapman and Clemens invited all to stay for a party. Bunco was played and cherry kuchen with whipped cream, tea and coffee were served.

SERVICEMEN'S NEWS

Jan. 11, 1945

To all those it may concern: Excuse the delay in writing but I've really been pressed for time. They keep us pretty busy all the time. All we do is study, but I like it fine. Thanks a million for the Christmas box that I received. It is mighty nice to receive things like that while away from home but that's not all Christmas means to us I had a fine Christmas at home and trust you did too.

Well its almost time for chow so will close. I have enclosed a true story that I thought might be interesting. Thanking you again for everything I am sincerely yours, Ken Jobson

Jan. 14, 1945

Dear Friends:
It has been quite a long time since I have written but I hope you will forgive me.

I first want to thank you for the wonderful Xmas box you sent. Everything was swell and I could use every bit of the contents. The fellows here wonder how a community can be so united that they remember the fellows away from home on every holiday. Now for the second thank you its for sending the Tinley Park Times it comes every week without fail, and helps keep us in touch with the "Old Home Town".

Now I suppose you would like to know what I'm doing in Hondo, Texas. This is an advanced training base for Navigators. I've been here ten weeks and have ten more to go. We go to school from 7:30 to 2:00 six days a week and then if we are lucky enough not to fly on Sunday we have the seventh day off. It is a very intensive course but also very interesting. When I finish here I receive my Wings and then about three months in a OTU from there on in I do not know. But I hope to see you in a few months just as soon as I finish here.

I hope by next year at this time none of the fellows will have to receive their gifts by mail but can receive them under their own trees at home.

Well I had better call a halt or start numbering the chapters. So until I have more spare time, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Dick Anderson

Jan. 15, 1945
Servicemens Committee:

Owe you a letter of thanks for your Christmas gift and sorry I didn't tend to it sooner but we are finishing another quarter and have had to buckle down in order to bring some of my grades up. I still have about 10 months more of schooling to finish, but compared with the time I have spent already it doesn't look so bad.

The food in that Christmas package really came in handy since we don't have the benefit of a canteen and you get pretty hungry in the evening. The deck of cards cost me about 5 hours of studying since I was looking for something to do besides Math problems.

Have a final exam in Math tomorrow and I still have plenty of reviewing to do but before I close thanks a lot for the swell Christmas spirit you've shown.

Lincoln EstatesAnn Rutledge School News
By Rosamaria Shaper

Tommy Tyler is ill with measles.

The first four grades are competing with the upper four grades in a scrap drive. The money is to be given to the Red Cross. Ronnie, Ruth and Rosamaria Schaper visited Springfield over the weekend. They saw Lincoln's tomb and home, the Capital building and the Centennial building.

Annabelle McKenzie is under the doctor's care because of a burn on her leg. Mrs. Stringer has started a sewing club for the four upper grade girls of Gatter and Ann Rutledge schools.

Mrs. Stringer visited our party on Valentines Day. We were glad to have her. At request of the Red Cross we are making favors for St. Patrick's Day.

Miss West, a Welfare Worker, visited us Monday morning.

Billy Shear saw a robin Friday. A flock of robins visited Walker's yard Sunday.

We are busy with St. Patrick's Day Red Cross work, to help fill a rush order from St. Louis which was received by the Joliet office.

Wilbur Goering was ill at home last Friday.

Tommy Taylor returned to school Monday.

The Muellers are planning to move from the Estates this weekend.

We are proud of the little boys and girls of the morning classes who are working very hard collecting papers for the paper drive.

Tommy Vaughn returned to school Monday after being absent with a cold.

Wilma Pollard was absent from school Friday.

Mary Louise Vaughn was absent several days last week.

Mrs. S. S. Knox

Lilas Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cooper was pleasantly surprised Monday evening when a group of girl friends appeared on the front porch and sang the Happy Birthday song to her. Games were played and refreshments served. The girls reported having a wonderful time.

The PTA Council of Southwest Suburbs of Cook County meeting held Tuesday, Feb. 20 at Simmons school in Oak Lawn was very well attended. Orland Park was represented by Mrs. Karl Ekberg, Mrs. Ralph Town and Mrs. S. Knox.

Mr. Chas. Wingo, Supt. of Argos Summit schools as guest speaker spoke on the theme Home and School in a changing World and stressed the need of post war planning on both the home front and the schools. A Founders Day Observance and History of the Council by Mrs. Knox conferences on Health by Mrs. Town Visual Education by Mrs. Breiding and Home and Family Life by Mrs. Schnepfer. Community singing under the direction of Mrs. Vogwill. Mrs. A. C. Jörn, director of Dist. 19 announced Mrs. Wocel of Evergreen Park had been appointed as her assistant anticipating the election of Mrs. Wocel as our next Dist. director.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Wm. Gaber, pres., Mrs. E. VanCleave vice president, Mrs. R. McCullough Sec., and Mrs. F. R. Roberts Treasurer. Palos Heights PTA makes the 13th unit in the Council. Mrs. W. Leonard Pres. of the Council introduced members from a newly organized PTA unit in Chicago Ridge. There also was a poster exhibit. Refreshments were served by members of the Simmons PTA.

The campaign for the Boy Scout Drive officially closed Friday, Feb. 16 and the total amount collected to date is $187.15. The campaign committee Mrs. O. W. Elwood, chairman Edw. Manning, Ray Myrick; Gordon Powell, S. V. Smith, R. L. Town and H. Pihl wish to take this opportunity to express their thanks and appreciation to the following ladies for their splendid cooperation in making this collection possible and also to the contributors:

Mrs. Earl Reish Sr., Mrs. Irene Borgo, Mrs. Edw. Manning, Mrs. Ray Myrick, Mrs. E. Brauer, Mrs. S. V. Smith, Mrs. Henry Klotz; Mrs. L. Hedlund, Mrs. Ralph Town and Mrs. O. W. Elwood.

This fund is for services rendered to our leaders and boys providing executive leadership, planning volunteer leaders, running camping programs etc. in the Pokagon Trails Council, of which over 30 communities of this area are involved. Every dollar invested in this campaign will be used as follows:

23 cents for service to Troops; 19 cents for service to Districts, 23 cents for Maintenance of Scout Headquarters; 14 cents for Promoting Camping; 15 cents for Administration and 6 cents for Miscellaneous items which makes it necessary to have these annual appeals for your support in order to continue having the benefits available thru this program. In these days when the topic of juvenile delinquency is on the lips of everyone, it is a comfortable feeling to know that we have in our community such a positive force for good citizenship as the Boy Scouts of America. A number of our own citizens are giving time without stint to carry on this work. Real strides have been made with this important program during the past few years and many new plans are in the making.

Plans are all set for the 1945 Red Cross War Fund Drive which officially opens Thursday, March 1. It is vital to "Keep Your Red Cross at His Side" and now more than ever Your Red Cross is at his side. It costs $6.00 a second for Red Cross World Wide Services. Last year your Red Cross collected 5,000,000 pints of blood from donors in this country in Chicago alone 239,500 pints were collected.

Over 1,300,000 hospital cases were helped by Red Cross hospital workers, 327 hospital recreation rooms and buildings and 5,149 sun-rooms provided further help. Your Red Cross Field Directors deal with all GI problems. Here at home relief was given in 259 disasters during the year, floods, tornadoes, etc. the largest number for any single year. Future demands will be even greater for more men are overseas and battle lines are extended. No turn of events can lessen the need.

Human reconversion is probably the most important problem of the postwar area. Men trained in the grim skill of warfare must be re-oriented to civilian life. Moreover, they must be shown that they are welcome back home and that their sacrifices have been appreciated. For that reason, the program of the Chicago Chapter of the American Red Cross is more important than ever in the months ahead. Thru the Red Cross, returning veterans can find the help and guidance is essential to their proper adjustment.

The following volunteer workers will canvass the whole of Orland township. Mrs. Earl Reish Sr., Mrs. Ralph Town, Mrs. Geo. Gee Jr., Mrs. Ike Cleveland, Mrs. Geo. Steinhagen, Mrs. Walter Koehler, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Earl Sayers, Mrs. Robt. Roth, Mrs. Alma Rauch, Mrs. Elmer Newton and Mrs. S. S. Knox. It is hoped that every window in the community will display the Red Cross contributor's emblem by the time the campaign is closed.

S Sgt. Gordon Doctor is home on furlough from overseas.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to the INR Beatty Lumber Co. for the swell banquet which was given in my behalf at the Saenger hall in Tinley Park. Also for the check they presented me at this banquet. Also would like to thank the employees of the Orland and Tinley Park yard for the identification tag they gave me and who so kindly cooperated in making this banquet something worth while to remember.

Somewhere in England

January 18, 1945

Dear Mrs. Kruspe:
Just a few lines to let you know that I arrived over here O. K. Spent the holidays here, but did not enjoy them very much, being so far from home. As yet I haven't received the home town paper, but am looking forward to it. I know that eventually I'll start getting it as in the States I used to receive it right on schedule.

Have had a lot of fun up to date trying to adapt myself to various English methods. One of the most difficult was learning English currency. Now that I have caught on to it, will probably take off for some other country.

All for this time, so until later my best wishes to you and all my friends in Orland.

Harry Hallinan.

Alsace, December 20, 1945

I have just received your package, along with one from the folks. Therefore I have Christmas cards, I am starting to receive my packages now. All the fellows in the Maint. section (8 of us) are saving their packages for a big Christmas party, (thanks to you, we have more than ever and I am really expecting a party. Merry Xmas to all.

Dear Mrs. Kruspe:
I have just received the Christmas package that was sent to me, by you and the Orland Auxiliary and I am writing to thank you for it. It arrived in fairly good shape, but my shipmates and I made short work of the contents.

I will take this opportunity to thank you also for the Orland paper as I enjoy knowing what is going on in Orland.

New Lenox Service Club

Dear Friends:
Just received the candy you sent me. Even tho it took quite sometime to catch up to me, it was still very delicious. The boys and I enjoyed it very much. It was a big treat as we haven't seen a candy bar for a long time now.

I hear, on the radio that you have been having extremely cold weather there this year. I wish I could send you some heat we have down here, as it is more than enough for all. Perhaps we could make an even exchange.

It is a little late to wish you a Merry Christmas or a Happy New Year for 44 so will settle for a Happy Easter. Thanks for the candy, it was appreciated very much, also the cards were very nice.

Sincerely,
Lt. Fred Sperling

The New Lenox Cardinal 4H club under the direction of Mrs. Walter Hamilton met last week Tuesday night in the grade school auditorium. Miss Rosemary Archibald, president presided over the business meeting.

MOKENA

Dear Mr. Semmler:

Have received another News-Bulletin from you, the first in quite a while and was certainly glad to get it. I really enjoy reading about the town and its vicinity.

Have also received a package from the Mokena Women's Service Club all the boys thought the candy was great, and they as well as I would like to thank you a lot for it. I can't express my real appreciation for the birthday packages and also the town papers, that I have received since I have been in the Navy.

There isn't much doing over here in the Pacific thought maybe that I would be able to see something this time, but I guess I am just supposed to ride around on a ship, making believe it is a pleasure cruise or something.

Well, time as well as paper is running short so had better sign my name before I run out of ink or something.

But before I close I would like to say Good Luck to all of you and would like to say thanks again for everything.

Sincerely,
Gerald W. Bennett S1-c

A U. S. Troop Carrier Force Base European Theater of Operations. Behind the headlines of every heroic exploit of Air Force combat crews is often found the untold story of how the ground mechanics and technicians worked many long hours to make the airplanes as near perfect as possible for a flight against the enemy. When a combat mission is completed and the airplane and crews return, the "behind the scenes" personnel have only the satisfaction of knowing their job was well done.

The famous 434th Troop Carrier Group commanded by Lt. Col. Ben A. Garland of Waco, Tex., has many mechanics and technicians who are in this non glamorous position. One of these men is S1 Sgt. James O. Scott of Mokena, Ill., a squadron glider mechanic.

When this hard striking, low flying Troop Carrier unit towed the first gliders to land on the Cherbourg peninsula and participated in the airborne envelopment of Holland, Sgt. Scott helped ready the gliders for these missions and his only reward was in knowing that the glider pilots who flew the missions returned to the home base without serious incident. Every glider had to be checked and doubled checked; every strut, cable, and spar had to be tested and the right amount of ballast in the form of sand bags had to be stored in the tail section of the motorless craft.

The Mokena sergeant who has been overseas for the past 18 months, doesn't confine his working activity to those periods preceding a combat mission. High winds and excessive rainfall play havoc with gliders and during these bad weather periods, Sgt. Scott must be on hand and ready to protect his glider fleet from the elements.

The wartime proverb, "He also serves, who stays behind and waits for their return" can well be applied to Sgt. Scott, who watches his gliders depart for enemy territory, and only learns of their fate when the glider pilots return.

Sgt. Scott's group is part of the vast U. S. Troop Carrier Forces, headed by Maj. Gen. Paul L. Williams, which is the flying echelon of Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's First Allied Airborne Army.

A veteran of six invasions in the European Theater of operations Sgt. Wm. T. Mueller, 28 son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Mueller, former Joliet residents, was killed in action some where in Belgium Dec. 22, 1944.

Sgt. Mueller was in the field artillery and saw action in the invasion of Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium and Germany.

He was a nephew of Mrs. Martin Mueller of Mokena.

The February meeting of the Mokena Jolly Troopers 4H club was held at the home of Elizabeth Lumpkin Tuesday Feb. 13.

A short business meeting was held conducted by the president Ruth Shevlin after which games were played and refreshments served by the hostess assisted by Joyce Schiek and Joanne Marti.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dorothy Kohl, the second Tuesday in March. Assisting hostesses will be Gene McGuire, Carol Benson, Elaine Spiess, and Mrs. Hunt.

I have been figuring on writing you a few lines for several weeks now. Well, here goes but as you know it can't and will not be very much.

I want to thank you for the birthday present and card. Next Thank you very much for the swell Christmas package. I received it last week. Everything was in good shape. It was all quite useful too.

There isn't much of anything that I can say about what I am doing. It is the same old routine day after day. Eat, work and sleep then if you are not too tired you can go to the movies. The movie is the only entertainment that we have. There have been several USO shows here including the Bob Hope Show. Of course you have heard time and again that it is plenty hot here. Some of the snow that you have been having would be quite welcome. I have missed two winters now and if I miss anymore it will not be my fault.

I will close hoping this letter finds you folks back there in the best of health and spirits. So long and I remain,

As ever,
Wm. Abbe M2-c

Italy, Jan. 26, 1945

Dear Friends:

Many thanks for the Christmas package that you sent me. It contained many useful articles and I know that they will all be in good use before long. As my address changed too close to Christmas to get packages for that season I have been getting them just lately, yours arrived Jan. 23, so in a way I am having a long holiday season. Seems to me that I thought the fudge was for Christmas but evidently it came a little early for my birthday. I was wrong. Thanks again for both.

I have heard that you have had considerable snow around home this winter. There have been three snows so far this winter in Southern Italy. They have been light, two to three inches, and only stayed for a short time, but they were beautiful. The temperature has seldom been below freezing and never stays very long. This has been a rather rough winter, so they say, for these parts.

So far I have completed thirteen trips over the target, twenty five missions. Weather has slowed things up considerably this winter. Hope the weather clears up so we can get this over with.

Sincerely,
Edward Lauffer

Pvt. Harry Cooper of Camp Ellis spent the week end in Mokena.

Petty Officer 3-c Irvin Howes of Navy Pier spent Sunday with his family.

Word has been received that Major W. P. Schindel has arrived in Iran, and that he has received his Christmas boxes and surely appreciated them much.

The regular monthly meeting of the Service Club will be held in the School Monday evening March 5th at 8 p.m. We hope to have a good representation present as we are planning to address the Easter cards for the Boys and Girls.

Dear Friends:
Just a few lines to let you know I received your Christmas packages and want to thank you. I know I'll enjoy eating it.

I'm feeling fine and kept busy these days as you all know. The busier we are the sooner we'll have this job done.

It's not too cold here yet and hope it stays this way for awhile yet.

Haven't much time so thanks again for everything, hoping you'll have a white Christmas and a very nice one too. Hope to see you soon.

As always,
Ted.

Greetings to all—

I know I have neglected all of you by not writing more often but you have not neglected me as yesterday I received such a nice package from you which I really enjoyed. It makes me happy to be remembered by so many. While opening your package I noticed that who ever wrapped it wrote "Guess Who" on the carton.

I'm afraid that I will have to give up as I haven't the slightest idea but I would like to know. Under the circumstances we did have a nice time and a very nice dinner, I ate so much that I was uncomfortable the rest of the day. I worked Xmas day but intend to have New Years off which I'll pass by sleeping until noon time then go to a movie, just another day. I like so many others are so anxious to get back home, it's been two years since I left the good old USA and in that time to admit that my friends have been ever so faithful to me, it isn't often that a few days pass without receiving a letter from someone. Thanks for the nice package and may this find all of you in the best of health.

Dear Ladies:

I'm afraid I'm quite late in writing and thanking you for the two packages you sent me but I don't have too much time to do any writing.

This morning is a typical spring morning, the sun is shining, for once, and the temperature is around fifty degrees. Ever since the thaw of Feb. 1 the weather has been generally mild even though it has rained quite a bit.

Had a bit of action Jan. 1 for a force. The Jerries came up in force and our battalion alone downed ten for sure and three probables. Not bad for one day's work.

Well I'm afraid I'll have to close for now.

Sincerely,
Mel

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I am thinking about starting a new contest. I am thinking about calling it "what makes you hottest under the collar—if anything." I was pondering same on account I been eating around a little, away from home, and been observing how food is wasted. I see folks nibble and play around with a nice piece of pie, eat out the middle and leave the crust. I see gals light a cigarette and flip ashes on a half empty plate, spoiling what remains, even for the cat. Something is wrong. Wrong bringing up maybe. Now you see the idea of the contest.

Folks having ideas, send 'em to the Editor, and we will get started. No telling who will win—or what. And another sample, if you didn't like the pie one, is the way they put this Mr. deMille off the radio because he wouldn't kick in with a one buck donation to the political outfit that he didn't think was so hot. He figured he had a right to belong to any party or vice versa. He thought he was in the United States. He stuck to his guns. That gent deserves 3 cheers.

If you want to get into this contest send your outburst to the editor right away. Even if you don't win a prize, it will maybe relieve your blood pressure.

Yours with the low down,

—JO SERRA

TIGHTENED HOME
CANNING SUGAR PROGRAM

A tightened home canning sugar program for the 1945 season—a program designed to insure a fair distribution of the available sugar to those who actually need it for canning, has been announced by Administrator Chester Bowles, OPA. Highlights of the new program are as follows: The housewife will apply at her local War Price and Rationing Board and indicate the amount of canning she intends to do this year. Local Boards will issue 5-pound home canning sugar coupons. No ration stamps in war ration book four will be good for canning sugar this year. For canning fruits and fruit juices, the allowance will be on the basis of one pound for each four quarts to be canned. The total allowance must not exceed 20 lbs. per person or 160 lbs. to a single family, even though the family may contain more than 8 persons.

MARCHED TO VICTORIES
ON THE HOME AND FOOD FRONT

Backing Our Fighters With Food. Beef, dairy, swine, and poultry projects are favorites with thousands of 4-H'ers like Donald Stoken of Hampshire, who was chosen as one of America's leading young dairymen at the National 4-H Congress.

Head as Well as Hands work for Glenn Thomas, State Rural Electrification Champ from Prophetstown. Ingenuity and "know how" enabled club members to construct hundreds of time, work, and animal-saving devices, enabled them to build many pieces of hard-to-get farm equipment.

Food Conservation, meal planning and preparation earned Norma Jean Gahn, Streator, a scholarship at the 4-H Congress. Cooking, canning, sewing and other domestic projects provide fun and education for future homemakers like Norma Jean.

LAST YEAR, inspired by their slogan "Back Our Fighters in '44—Produce, Conserve, and Do Lots More," more than thirty-four thousand Victory-minded boys and girls in Illinois rolled up their sleeves, went to work and did a man-sized job of helping to win the war.

Extra effort was placed on the production of food needed to fill mess kits and market baskets. And having produced the food, they went all-out for its conservation through projects involving meal planning and preparation, canning and preserving the surplus. Other club members made contributions by learning to repair and remodel old clothing, as well as design and sew new garments. Projects in all phases of farming and homemaking were completed.

Many special wartime services were conducted by these patriotic young folk... tons of waste paper, scrap metal and fats were saved... four ambulances were donated to the services... equipment for a radio shop in an army general hospital is being purchased.

Social Activities and business-like meetings, complete with officers, speakers, and demonstrations, stimulate and hold interest in 4-H clubwork, give members recreation and a sense of responsibility. Here's the Yorkville 4-H Club in session.

For these, and countless other contributions, we owe our Illinois 4-H'ers a debt of gratitude.

Another 4-H Club Week is here. Parents are urged to encourage their children to join the local club. The advantages of being a club member are numerous. Social activities provide entertainment, teach community leadership. Contests create a competitive spirit resulting in a broader, more thorough education. Physical well-being is stressed. When Head, Heart, Hands, and Health team up, you have an unbeatable combination—the 4-H Clubs. Boys and girls today—leaders tomorrow.

NATIONAL
4-H CLUB WEEK
March 3rd-11th

Get complete details on club membership from your farm or home advisor now!

More than 10,000,000 boys and girls from everywhere have taken part in 4-H activities—a glowing tribute to our 4-H clubs' worth. The active Manhattan Snap Club hold their meetings at regular intervals.

Raise These New Disease Resistant, High Yielding Varieties—TAMA, VICLAND, BOONE or MARION

WHAT GREAT NEWS it is to Illinois and Indiana oat growers that you can now raise more bushels of oats per acre and higher quality oats by growing the new disease-resistant varieties.

FOR ILLINOIS these varieties are TAMA, VICLAND, BOONE and MARION.

FOR INDIANA—TAMA, VICLAND and MARION.

YES, by ridding your farm of the old varieties and planting only these new high-yielding varieties in 1945 you may get—

1. More bushels per acre.
2. Higher quality oats.
3. More feed for livestock and poultry.
4. Extra dollars from your oat crop.

IN NORMAL YEARS these new varieties will yield 10 to 15% more than the old varieties. If 1945 is a bad rust year the new varieties will yield at least 50% more oats than the old varieties.

PLAN NOW to grow only these new improved varieties, then make sure your seed oats are free of weed-seed and other grains. Cleaning and treating seed oats will help increase your yield from 3 to 10 bushels to the acre. Seed can be cleaned and treated at central cleaning and treating plants throughout the state or at home by means of a small fanning mill and home-made grain treater. Ask your county agent or farm adviser for details.

REMEMBER, PLANT ONLY THESE NEW VARIETIES—Tama, Vicland, Boone or Marion. All are heavy yielding, disease resistant and approved by your State Experiment Station. Buy them from your neighbor, country elevator or seed dealer.

MAKE YOUR OAT CROP MORE CERTAIN IN 1945!

Washington, D. C.
GERMAN UNDERGROUND
SEETHES

According to uncensored dispatches now reaching Washington, active guerrilla warfare is flaring up on a mounting scale behind the German lines.

First real indication of an active Fifth column in Germany came recently with accurate reports of pitched battles inside Berlin, Breslau and Bremen. This new guerrilla warfare differs from that of partisan units inside France, Yugoslavia and Greece in that few of the guerrilla troops are Germans. The bulk are Frenchmen and Russians who were captured earlier in the war and have been used as slave labor in the Reich.

All of these workers were carefully guarded by Himmler until recently. Most lived in big cities and worked in large industrial plants. In Berlin for example, hundreds of thousands of slave laborers have been housed in fenced off temporary barracks in the heart of the city.

But recent powerful allied air raids have created such chaos that thousands of foreign workers escaped from their enclosures and have hidden in the bomb ruins.

At night, the guerrillas prowl the streets, capture Nazi sentries, steal food and ammunition, commit extensive sabotage. They have been joined by some German army deserters, afraid to return to the front, advisers say.

Once Berlin is taken it is expected that the several million slave laborers will flare into such revolt that Germany—except in the mountainous south—will cave like an egg-shell.

OVER-AGE SERVICEMEN

Greatest hardship on men in the army probably is with enlisted men over 38, now too old to become officers but who can't resign as officers can.

Typical case of how this hardship works is that of Cpl. Alexander C. Sioris, age 45, who has served in the army three years, most of the time overseas. Corporal Sioris is not only a college graduate, but holds a doctor's degree. Twice he was recommended for officers' training school, but each time his unit moved overseas and he had to sail with his unit. Now he is too old to be commissioned, too old for combat, yet under present army rules must be kept on—doing menial jobs.

There are thousands of similar cases. What the army needs is a good overhauling of its manpower, especially older men who have been in the army a long time.

NEW MANPOWER PROGRAM

War Manpower Commission Director Paul McNutt may put a new program into effect very soon in all light labor areas. This would limit employers in non-essential or less essential industries to a certain percentage of the number of workers they employed last year. This ceiling-employee program has already been tried out in Chicago and proven successful.

Chicago employers in non-essential and less essential industries will be required to cut the number of employees on the payroll 10 per cent by March 15.

SECRET RED WEAPONS

The Russians are way ahead of both the United States and Great Britain in the use of rocket guns, have employed them with devastating effect in the lightning drive through Poland, and particularly in the offensive against the Nazis in East Prussia.

One new and very important weapon which Stalin unveiled in the new drive is the 100-ton tank named after himself. The Stalin tank is superior to the German royal tiger tank, and our own Sherman heavy tank. It carries a 4.8-inch gun as against the 3-inch gun carried on our Sherman. So long as the ground remains hard, the Stalin tank is capable of resisting any but the largest point-blank German shells. On the other hand, the mobile gun on the Stalin tank can pierce most of the German secondary fortifications so far encountered by the Russians, it is said.

WAR NOTES

German are already trying to escape from the threatened Nazi homeland. Reports from Lisbon, Madrid, Stockholm and Berne reveal hundreds of Germans trying to crash the frontier to get out of Germany before the Allies take over.

FDR still hasn't decided who he will name as high commissioner of the Philippines. WMC Director Paul McNutt and Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy both are ready to go. If Murphy takes it, Roosevelt will nominate Judge Sam Rosenman to the Supreme court.

A significant new Slav treaty is now being negotiated. It will bind together the Czechoslovak government and the Lublin-Polish government in the first step toward the creation of an eastern European Slavic alliance—naturally with Moscow's blessing.

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:21-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—If ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.—Matthew 6:14, 15.

Forgiveness is the very essence of Christianity. In Christianity only do we find an adequate and proper dealing with sin, leading to forgiveness. In Christ alone do we find that forgiveness, cleansing and regeneration.

Since God has so willingly and wonderfully provided for our forgiveness, it would seem that we would need no urging to make us forgiving in spirit toward one another.

Yet it is indeed "a melancholy fact that there are few Christian duties so little practiced as that of forgiveness. It is sad to see how much bitterness, unmercifulness, spite, harshness and unkindness there is among men" (J. C. Ryle).

I. The Extent of Forgiveness (vv. 21, 22).

"How long do I have to stand it?" is the question of the human heart, especially if untouched by the spirit of Christ. The injustices of life, the offenses of our fellow men against us, all seem to pile up until the burden is about to crush us. What is the answer to man's question?

The Jews had an answer. He said three times is enough. Forgive once, yes. Again, yes. But the third time, no. Peter was bighearted enough to more than double that allowance of mercy. He was willing to forgive not just two or three times, but seven times.

The spirit of Christ swept all of that aside. He said that one should forgive 70 times seven. In other words, Christian forgiveness is to be untiring, unlimited, to know no weariness and have no boundaries. If one really forgives, it is because he has a forgiving spirit, and that spirit is not exhausted by use, but rather grows by exercise.

A word of caution is in order at this point. Let no one suppose that our Lord's instruction means that offenses against the law of the land or against the good order of society are to be overlooked and condoned.

It relates rather to the cultivation of a personal spirit of forgiveness, the laying aside of revenge, of malice, of retaliation which do not become the Christian.

II. The Motive of Forgiveness (vv. 23-34).

Two motives are given. The first is that since we ourselves are daily and hourly in need of forgiveness at the merciful hand of God, we should in turn be merciful toward those who sin against us. Compared with our offenses against the law of God, we know that the misdeeds of our neighbors against us are usually mere trifles. Remember what God has done for you, when you are tempted to be hard and ungracious with your brother.

The second motive is the remembrance that a day of judgment is to come. There is always a time of reckoning ahead, even as was the case with these servants. Remember not only what God has done for you and is doing for you, but what you must yet expect Him to do in that day of judgment. It will make you merciful and gracious in your judgment of others.

Forgiveness has a fine quality which commends itself to others. Note the sorrow of the fellow servants (v. 31). There is, then, a social value in true forgiveness.

III. The Importance of Forgiveness (v. 35).

A man dealing with his fellow man is apt to think that it is merely a matter between man and man. We are not dealing with a straight line between ourselves and our brother (that was Peter's error), but with a triangle at whose apex is God Himself.

If I expect God to forgive me, I must let my forgiveness flow out to my brother. If I deal with him as though God had nothing to do with the matter, then I must not try to count God's forgiveness into the picture when I stand indebted before Him.

God does not play favorites. He is no respecter of persons. He is as interested in the other man as He is in me. The Christian should have the same spirit.

Here we need a word of explanation. Let no one suppose that our redemption in Christ is contingent upon what we do toward our brethren. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8, 9).

Nor does the truth of our lesson mean that we are somehow going to bargain with God, trading a bit of our forgiveness toward others for His forgiveness of us. God is not interested in such transactions. But it does mean that if you cannot or will not forgive, you may well consider whether you are a Christian at all, for it is Christlike to forgive.

Silk Patchwork Quilt
Colorful and Quaint

AN OLD-FASHIONED crazy-patch quilt aglow with color and quaint stitchery makes a decorative slumber throw for the sofa in today's living room. It picks up and repeats all the room colors and the hit-and-miss pattern harmonizes with furnishings old and new.

In Victorian days great grandfather's cravats were the source of many a rich piece of silk for these quilts. Why not look over the old ties that G.I. Joe left behind with an eye to the same purpose? The ends are always good no matter how worn the center part may be. Collecting bits of bright silk, ribbon and embroidery thread will be an exciting hobby and it costs nothing.

NOTE—BOOK 2 of the series of 32-page booklets offered with these articles gives complete directions for making crazy-patch quilts with dozens of diagrams showing the old-fashioned embroidery stitches used. Copy of BOOK 2 will be sent postpaid upon receipt of 15 cents with name and address. Write to:

Egyptians Became First Surveyors Because of Nile

The Egyptians were the world's first surveyors. The word "geometry" signified land-measure, and the origin of this science is attributed to the necessity of resurveying the Egyptian fields following the annual inundations of the Nile. The Egyptians were an intensely practical people. They developed greatly the science of applied geometry, but they left the theoretical side of the subject to the more speculative Greeks.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

HOMER by CROY

© W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Amos Croy and his wife settled on a farm in Missouri, where Homer was born. Sunday meant church, company for dinner and steer weighing. The Croys attended the Omaha Exposition, where Homer had his first taste of the outside. He finished high school and college, then went to New York City where he secured a job as cub on Theodore Dreiser's woman's magazine. On a visit home he was glad to learn that Phebe, who had been his father's housekeeper since his mother's death, was to marry his father. Homer returned to New York and had his first novel, "Boone Stop," accepted for publication. Royalties were practically nothing on this book.

CHAPTER XX

The old settlers were going. He and Phebe would get in the buggy and join the procession. When there was a G.A.R. funeral, he would put on his old blue uniform and stand by the grave; then he would come home and hang the uniform in the closet till next time.

He wrote no more at all. Phebe's letters always ended, "Your father says to come home whenever you can."

The inevitable happened. One day I got a telegram. "Your father is failing. Phebe."

No one came to meet me at the depot; there was no one to swing my grip. But when I got out of the jitney, Phebe was at the door to meet me, looking old and worn, her eyes still framed in the gold glasses. "He's been asking all morning when you'd get here."

The old gentleman was in the north room, in the house south of the water tower, in the walnut bed he had brought in from the farm. His knotted, misshapen hands were on the outside of the covers. He held his hand out to me and said in a faint voice, "I'm glad to see you, son. I guess you got in on the 8:10."

At the foot of the bed, next to the south wall, was the old tin, camel-back trunk I had taken to the university. It was now covered with a horse blanket, and I sat down on it.

His face was drawn, but his eyes were as blue as ever. The same spirit of mutual understanding we had always when we got together, after being separated, leaped up.

All the questions were about me. "How is your wife, Homer?" "What kind of weather have you been having back East?"

It was not long before he began to talk about the farm. "Homer, you've got a good farm there." The poignancy touched me. He was releasing his hold on the farm. "Some of them laughed at me when I got it because there wasn't any timber on it, but it worked out pretty well!" A gleam in his eyes there, for now he had the best farm in the neighborhood. "Your mother was always awful fond of you." He was not one to pay compliments himself, and I realized that he was also saying this for himself.

He spoke of events of years ago as if they had just happened. Once a dashy-dressed drummer for a nursery had come to our house, driving a high-stepping livery team, and asked me to drive around with him and introduce him to the farmers. For which he would pay my father five dollars a day—a fortune. And now my father spoke of it.

"I'm glad I didn't take it." He had to rest and I crept out of the room for a while. When I looked in again his blue eyes were still open.

"I wish you'd pare my fingernails." And now I realized something that touched me. He had never been a man to show open marks of affection, such as putting his arm around me, as I have seen so many fathers do to their children. But now . . . in these last hours . . . he wanted the feel of his son. I had sense enough to make the paring of the nails last as long as I could.

"I've got my G.A.R. suit hangin' in the closet. I've always been proud of it."

His eyes closed; after a while they opened. "Do you remember the time I bought the buffalo robe for Christmas for your mother?"

I nodded, choked with feeling.

He wanted to do something for me, as if it was some final fatherly touch.

"Phebe and I have a good feather bed upstairs we're not usin'. How would you like to have it?"

I explained as gently as I could that people in New York did not use feather beds.

"I suppose not," he said with a sigh.

It was not long before he was back to the farm. "It's all free and clear. It's been my ambition to leave it to you that way and that's what I'm doing. Don't ever put a mortgage on it. They eat like a cancer."

The time came when I must go back, and I went in and sat on the camel-backed trunk for the last time. Finally when the moment came, I shook his gnarled hand. "Take care of yourself, Homer." It was the last thing he ever said to me.

After I had been back about a week, I got word that the end had come. I could not go to the funeral . . . only in my thoughts.

I built a home in Forest Hills, Long Island, New York ("The Little House with the Big Mortgage" I called it) and wrote two more ping books. I wrote all sorts of stuff, and that's just about what it was. There was my old trouble of never being able to tell whether what I was writing was good, or not. It all seemed good when the words were flowing; pretty bad when the words were stiff and cold. But I kept grinding away and managed to make a living.

We had more ambitious plans than burning a mortgage, and soon we were about them. Yes, actually on the way to Europe. One of the persons on the ship was Walter Lippmann. I wrote him a note I would like to meet him, and soon I was buying him a drink. How sweet it was to consort with the famous, elbow to elbow, no looking up and no looking down.

And it was not long before we were in Paris. Wonderful Paris! That was the way I had always seen it described and that was the way it was always mentioned by returning friends. But I had to see it through my own eyes. It was disappointing. It was odd and strange and it was interesting, but certainly not wonderful. Nothing seemed to be logical, and to me the people seemed to be slightly on the demented side.

I looked at the French through what were, I supposed, cornfield eyes, but I was making up my mind as to what I saw and felt. They seemed aloof and artificial, sometimes on the verge of childishness. Now that I look back, this may have been because I met only the French who came in contact with the public. I did not get into a home where I could meet "the real French," as my wiser and more experienced friends called them; and I could not parley their language. So I had to judge by what I saw. And that was what I have done all my life. I realize much of it has been wrong, but still it was my own point of view.

We went to the Riviera and took rooms at the Grand Hotel in Sainte Maxime and I went to work on an idea for the novel that was to follow "West of the Water Tower." The guidebook said Sainte Maxime was one of the lovely spots on the Mediterranean, and the two or three Americans we met said it was delightful. To me it was just plain cockeyed. The crooked narrow streets, the yard-wide sidewalks, the nonsensical two-wheeled carts, the mailman carrying his letters in a tin box suspended from his shoulders. The people eternally sitting in cafes swigging beer or tiny drinks. Such a place was interesting to see, like a pumpkin show, but certainly not the place where I wanted to live. Or the kind of life I wanted to live.

Dale Carnegie, who was born on a farm a few miles from where I was, came to see me. He had seen much more of Europe than I had; in fact, had lived there. But when we got down to cases, he felt about it much as I did. I suppose you can't ever get a farm out of a person. For that matter, I don't know that I want to.

The part I liked best was to see how the French farmed. Of course I couldn't talk to them, but I walked across their land and watched them working. I must have watched sympathetically, for none chased me off. I was fascinated by their market days and, no matter how hard I was supposed to be working, I managed to be there. Taking pigs to market in baskets! Carrying sheep with their feet lashed over a pole! It was play farming. Having a manure pile just outside the house. It was disgusting. But when I looked a little deeper and saw the handicaps the farmers had to overcome, and their poor soil and primitive machinery, my respect went up. It was toy farming, but, everything considered, they turned in a good job.

Often I thought how I would like to take one of them to my farm and show him the long straight stoneless rows, three horses abreast swinging down a black loam field, a whole hill covered with steers, a feed lot alive with shoats. How he would blink. Yet these French farmers knew tricks I didn't. If our Missouri farmers had to clog around in wooden shoes and plow with a four-inch moldboard . . . would we have done any better?

In the spring we went back to Paris. The day after we arrived, as Homer, Junior, was riding his tricycle around the hotel grounds he put his hand on his back and said in his childish voice that his back hurt. By morning he was worse. We got the doctors at the American Hospital, and they also brought in the best professors in Paris to help our little boy. How far from home we seemed! But it wasn't really so far, after all, for five Americans came to our hotel to ask if there was anything they could do. But sometimes no one can help.

He died in that lonely Paris hotel. But in the next room were three Americans we had never seen before who had come, as they said, "in case we needed them."

When our little boy was buried from the American Church, there must have been a dozen Americans there we had never seen before and who came up and offered their sympathy. A kind-faced man I had never seen before and have never seen since, put his arm around my shoulder and said: "The rest of them asked me to say they know how you must feel when this happens so far from home."

It made America seem very close.

When the coffin, covered with an American flag, was taken through the streets, the Frenchmen lifted their hats. That helped, too. It all helped and yet, at such a time, nothing helps, for when the big crises come we enter them alone. But some way or other we do stand them, we do go on living, we laugh again.

After twenty-two months in Europe we returned to 10 Standish Road. (Item: fourteen windowpanes in our little house were broken.) It had been a lovely fling, but all of our money was gone.

One day a real estate neighbor "dropped" in to see me. (On what small incidents does the door of life swing.) I had known him for some time, and had seen his cars grow bigger and rakier. Now what was I going to do? he asked. Well, I was going to plug along as best I could. Then he asked me about how much I expected to make without quite asking it. And when I told him without quite telling him, he looked distressed. It was a shame to see a person work so hard and get so little. He began to tell about "deals" he had pulled off. He wasn't the only one doing that; everybody was making money in real estate. All a person had to do was to get "control" of a piece of property, hang on a while, then sell at a whacking price. My tongue was soon hanging out. He mentioned two or three men who, as he said, were playing the game. I began to think of myself as playing the game.

There was a piece of property coming onto the market by forced sale; it was an easy way for somebody to pick up some easy money. I had never picked up any easy money in my life and now under his hypnotic powers it seemed about time. If I could raise some money and make a down payment, he could buy that corner lot for me. The way property was jumping, I could sell it in no time at a neat profit. Why, I could make five thousand dollars!

"That's nothing in comparison to what some of the boys are making!" he said.

When I told him it seemed big to me, he smiled pityingly. I'd just never waded around in real estate. Then he told of another man, who, as he phrased it, had hit the jack pot.

He came several times and several times I walked across the corner lot that was bound to skyrocket. He was a bit shocked when I confessed how little money I had. Well, writers were simply not businessmen.

Bit by bit it got around to putting a mortgage on our house. I would not put one on the farm. I stood out against that. Should we, or should we not? It would be only for a brief time, then we'd clean up (as my friend said), wipe off the mortgage and have a neat sum in the bank. The more he talked, the more plainly I could see he was right. But there was a catch. I would have to pay $210 a month interest and taxes, a staggering sum. But it would be, he explained, only for a short time. Then there would be that neat sum.

After days of swinging between confidence and hesitation, we marched down and put a mortgage on the little house with the lovely rounded doorway, and became the owners of a corner lot. There it was, when we walked across it, ours! Every inch of it; well, at least, every other inch.

Now I would really have to work. No doubt of that.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

During at least the first three years following the end of the war, experts believe that 70 million tires will be needed annually in the U. S. alone. The peak year, 1941, saw a production of 62 million tires in this country.

Greater use of mechanical farm implements in post-war years is expected to make agriculture one of the largest consumers of rubber.

Despite the Far East war, the Foreign Economic Administration expects that 73,100 tons of natural rubber will be shipped to the U. S. from Ceylon and India during 1944.
